DESCRIPTION
"...We still don't fully understand our body's natural way of functioning, even though we spend our entire lives with it and use it to create others..."

This documentary proposes an alternative to traditional methods of contraception. Through numerous interviews with both men and women, it answers the most frequently asked questions on the gentler modes of contraception. This video is careful to present the very human dimension of this subject. In a sense, it may act as a forum for discussion on the larger topics related to contraception in general.
