DESCRIPTION
The touching portrait of a 13-year-old adolescent, Marc Beaulieu, who has leukemia. He confides in Lise Thouin, actrice, a volunteer who assists sick children, and a sort of fairy godmother. Thouin invites the boy to a conference entitled Life Without Limits, in the presence of the Dalai Lama. Marc sends His Holiness his own message of hope about life, suffering and death. The parallel between life without limits and Marc's fragile health demonstrates that healing is, above all, the acceptance of death.
