

ROBERT BARDSTON, LE FILS DU BARDE

DIRECTOR

Claude Lavoie

DURATION

53:00

YEAR

1988

ORIGINAL LANGUAGE

English

French

CATEGORY

Documentary

DESCRIPTION

Robert Bardston is a Black American cello virtuoso who now lives in Canada. This engaging character, minus his classical tuxedo, speaks with passion and humour about a concert musician's everyday life and about his integration into a new culture. An urge to free himself from the ghetto of Louisville, Kentucky led him to study the cello in West Germany and Canada. Many years later, he has come full circle and takes great pride in his origins. While he talks and demonstrates his musical talent, his honesty and determination as an artist become the main subject of the video.

IMAGE FORMAT

4:3

SOUND

Mono

KEYWORDS

Music, Genius, Language, Immigration, Discrimination, Teaching

THEMES

Art and culture